Awe Sum Organics' Avocados are harvested to our strict high dry matter standards which ensures a high oil content for a rich buttery flavor and a smooth and creamy consistency. Our organic avocados are grown in the most perfect areas in the world for organic avocado production year-round. All of our Organic Avocado growers and pack houses in Mexico and Colombia are planned to achieve Fair Trade Certification through Fair Trade USA in the coming months.

Our Awe Sum Organics Hass Avocados from Mexico are grown by two of the top Organic Avocado growers in the State of Michoacan, which is well known for high quality avocados with a rich buttery flavor and a smooth creamy consistency. The high altitude, rich soils, and temperate climate in Michoacan is perfect for growing high quality Avocados.

Our Awe Sum Organic Mexican Hass Avocados are the perfect complement to our Awe Sum Organic Colombian Hass Avocados ensuring a full and robust supply 52 weeks per year of high quality, great tasting Awe Sum Organic Avocados. Our Colombian grower is a leader in Organic Hass Avocado production in Colombia and has orchards at various altitudes and a centrally located organically certified pack-house ensuring a year-round supply.

Colombia is the perfect climate to grow organic avocados year-round! The combination of ideal temperature, rainfall, live nutrient-rich soil, and harvesting each avocado when the dry matter is at the optimum level gives our Awe Sum Organic Avocados from Colombia a consistently rich flavor and velvety smooth texture.

Taste tests have shown that the flavor of Colombian Avocados harvested when the dry matter is good are comparable to that of avocados from California and Mexico. Colombia's tropical climate and abundant year-round rainfall allows avocados to be grown sustainably as year-round rainfall produces bountiful natural irrigation. Soil quality is maintained and enhanced organically to create live and nutrient rich soil. The tropical climate of the Antioquia region of Colombia together with the 6000 feet average altitude of the Urrao Province where our Colombian Organic Avocados are grown is ideal for growing high-quality organic Avocados sustainably. The temperature range of 55-80 degrees Fahrenheit, and an average yearly rainfall of 138 inches creates the optimum natural growing conditions for Avocados, as they demand large amounts of irrigation year-round. Transportation time from Colombia to the US is very short ensuring freshly harvested Avocados on arrival at our warehouses in the US. Our Awe Sum Organic Hass Avocados from Colombia are transported to the US in ocean containers to each coast, which minimizes the carbon footprint of the transportation to the US.
